We strive to produce German Shepherds with excellent health, solid nerves, correct structure, and high trainability

Von Schone Stadt German Shepherds Our puppies are born in our home where they are able to be handled and interacted with on a daily basis, also receiving early neurological stimulation (ENS) through the "Bio Sensor" program. As they grow, exposure to other dogs, cats, goats, different sounds, flooring, and situations ensure our puppies get off to the best start in life possible. Schöne Stadt puppies are dewormed at regular intervals and will have had one or two vaccinations before leaving for their new homes. We begin feeding moist kibble around 3 wks of age, along with raw ground beef, raw goat milk from our own dairy goats (when available), and Vitamin C. Although all of our breeding dogs have certified hips and elbows with ancestors that are also certified, environmental factors can play a part in the incidence of hip dysplasia. So to help in the prevention of dysplasia we recommend supplementing your puppy's diet with Vitamin C, which is important for the development of bones, muscles, and connective tissue.
