We breed the Schutzhund German Shepherd and we currently have some puppies for sale. The Schutzhund name comes from the German word "Schutz" meaning shelter or protection and the word "hund" meaning dog.

Loup Valley Shepherds When it comes to owning a dog, there are many factors that need to be considered. You want a dog that is great with children, is easily adaptable to new surroundings and will be a protector and life long member of your family. Loup Valley Shepherds is happy to say that all of the above criteria specifically describe the German Shepherd. We are a proud breeder of this incredible dog whom we've grown to love and respect for many years. We have been owners of German Shepherds for six years now and have loved every minute of it. The German Shepherd is a very reliable and dependable breed of dog. We follow all breeding standards and guidelines to protect the dogs involved and the babies to be born. We are premier German Shepherd dog breeders in St. Paul Nebraska. We breed the Schutzhund German Shepherd and we currently have some puppies for sale. The Schutzhund name comes from the German word "Schutz" meaning shelter or protection and the word "hund" meaning dog. We choose this breed because they have better health in hips than the America German Shepherds do. The German Shepherds we breed are all seen by a licensed veterinarian and we make sure each Shepherd has passed its health clearances before breeding. Along with proper diet and health tests before breeding, we believe that this is the best way to produce the healthiest puppies possible. The German Shepherd is one of the most loyal and protective dog of their owners. They have a long lifespan and are content just to spend time with their family.
