A good German Shepherd is the essence of the working and companion dog.

Casamoko Shepherds is a professional German Shepherd Breeder located in Rhode Island. We strive to breed high quality German Shepherds that come as close to the AKC standard as possible. Health and temperament are our main concerns and being a veterinarian makes the health part essential. Our dogs are all well socialized and attend training classes from an early age. Casamoko Shepherds strives to produce puppies that can do it all—so far we have puppies that are competing in conformation (dog shows), obedience, agility, rally, herding, tracking, schutzhund, and of course many that are wonderful companions and pets. We typically have one to two litters of puppies a year and are not a kennel that produces numerous litters per year and lives off of the dogs. This is strictly a hobby and is done with the intention of improving the breed and our lines. Good breeders do not make money off their dogs or puppies because the money is put back into the dogs. This is definitely the case at Casamoko Shepherds, as each year we spend more on the dogs than what we make. This is why this is a hobby and not a profession or a business. Thankfully my work as a veterinarian allows me to support this hobby. All content of this listing belongs to the Owner in this Listing! Copyright © All Rights Reserved.
