Specializing in Long Haired German Shepherd Dogs

CROOKED RIVER LONG COAT GERMAN SHEPHERDSAs you can see I offer a wide variety of colors, but health and temperament are my number one priority. My puppies are all raised with love and care.I am a very small breeder, producing only a few litters a year. My only goal as a breeder is to provide a healthy companion that you can love and cherish as much as I do my personal dogs. These are truly magnificent creatures and I want to share these wonderful dogs with each of my prospective new owners.Please contact me if you are interested in one of my pups. We are a small kennel located on 2 acres of land in northeast Ohio where we are fortunate enough to have lots of room for our dogs to run, jump and play. At Crooked River, we strive to produce German Shepherds that are family companion's first and foremost. Our dogs are not high drive dog, working, "need a job" German Shepherds. We breed for calm, laid back, intelligent, loving family dogs with an "off" switch. Our dogs have wonderful temperaments, are easily trained and have sound minds and bodies. We strive to produce a dog that your family can live with day to day but be large enough to make a "bad guy" think twice. German Shepherds are born with the instinct to protect their family. You may never see your dog act protective until such a time as is needed. Hopefully you will never ever have to see it. We believe that a well bred dog that the family can handle will be more likely to always have a home. German Shepherds can have different coat lengths - Short, Plush and Long Coats (long haired). We produce more long coats than the other two lengths. Long hair German Shepherds have two different coat types. Long stock coat and long coat. A long haired stock coat has dense undercoat and a longer top layer of hair. A true long hair coat does not have the under coat. I personally find that my long stock coats do not shed as much as my plush stock coat. I know it sounds unlikely but it's true.German Shepherds can come in a variety of colors, not just the show dog look of black and tan saddle back. There are also black and reds, black and silver, black and cream, bi-colors (all black with just a touch of coloring on legs, face and possibly chest), Sable, solid white and solid Black. It is possible for us to produce any of these colors. All content of this listing belongs to the Owner in this Listing! Copyright © All Rights Reserved.
