Tom Rose School - St. Louis, Missouri -- basic to advanced obedience training. With almost four decades of experience, The Tom Rose School graduated many of the foremost trainers in the world today. We are internationally known and proven! Employers hire our graduates because experience tells them that TRS graduates are the without equal. Graduates who start their own business succeed! As one student put it, "There is no other school with the experience, instruction and track record of TRS. There is no other school that teaches different training techniques, then encourages the student to choose the methods they are comfortable using.
