Our German Shepherds are our pets and part of our family, first and foremost.

White Willow German Shepherd Dogs Our dogs are our pets and part of our family, first and foremost. They live inside with us at all times. Before making any breeding decisions, we complete the following for each of our dogs: hip and elbow x-rays evaluated by the Orthopedic Foundation for Animals, MDR1 test (or known by parentage), and DM test (or known by parentage). We put great effort into looking at health information, temperament, and pedigrees when making breeding decisions. Quality far exceeds quantity. All of our dogs are registered as German Shepherd Dogs, and we require all of our puppies to be registered only as German Shepherd Dogs. As a breeder, we strive to produce healthy puppies with stable temperaments, correct conformation, and the ability to excel at anything they are asked to do - whether that be agility, obedience, rally, herding, tracking, fly ball or simply being a wonderful family companion. The German Shepherd Dog is an extremely versatile breed and we want our puppies to reflect that. We believe in breeding for health and temperament. We feel those are most important, closely followed by working ability and conformation. With every litter we produce, we take careful consideration and time to choose dogs that complement each other well. We only have up to one special litter each year. We believe that a German Shepherd Dog is the combination of proper health, temperament, working ability, and conformation. Without all of these, he/she is not what the German Shepherd Dog should be. We see beauty in the versatile German Shepherd Dog. All content of this listing belongs to the Owner in this Listing! Copyright © All Rights Reserved.
