Ehret German Shepherds People the world over have come to admire the German Shepherd Dog for its intelligence and versatility, courage and trainability, and of course its noble look. Whatever brings you to your search for a German Shepherd Dog, we hope that the information provided here will excite you about the possibilities of owning one of our outstanding German Shepherd lines. Our puppies are given a temperament evaluation at seven to eight weeks of age. This, together with our close interaction with the puppies from birth, helps us to make recommendations as to the best matching of the puppies' talents & traits with the situation into which the pups may be going, whether for show, schutzhund, family companion, or other work.
